Islamophobia and Higher Education

Informed by anti-racist and inclusive pedagogies, the conference will bring together faculty, staff and librarians to address the intersectionality of the Muslim experience in higher education, in an urban context. Attendees will participate in learning and discussion on the multifaceted nature of anti-Muslim racism and seek ways to counter this systemic bias.

Preliminary list of speakers includes:

- Dr. Azeezah Kanji, Legal Academic and Writer
- Dr. Fatimah Jackson-Best, Mental Health Researcher, McMaster University
- Dr. Suleyman Dost, Islamic History, UTSC
- Ms. Amira Elghawaby, Canadian Race Relations Foundation
- Ms. Rania Lewandy, Executive, Muslim Association of Canada (MAC)
- Professor Anver Emon, Director, Institute of Islamic Studies
- Dr. Umberin Najeeb, Faculty Lead, Equity for the Department of Medicine
- and many more
